

LUCE

Made with 100% recycled aggregates of natural origin derived from feldspar waste obtained during granite extraction. Each slab contains over 93% recycled components and is free of added quartz, significantly reducing the presence of crystalline silica (< 40%) compared to traditional composites. The Madreterra Luce surface has a uniform white background with a fine, regular grain. Light tone-on-tone veins run across the slab, creating an elegant, light effect that enhances the natural light and the material perception of the surface.
